

Pledge to Maintain Order During Strikes Is Given By President

"Armed Lawlessness," "Butcher" and "Conspiracy" on Either Side Will Not Be Tolerated.

ASKS FEDERAL AGENCY TO DISTRIBUTE COAL

Harding Intends to Invoke Civil and Criminal Laws to Keep Trains Moving.

Trainmen Disapprove, Owners Approve Speech

Washington, August 18.—(By United News.)—Pending official comment by President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, relative to President Harding's speech Friday, other labor leaders here designated the message as "sounding brass."

New York, August 18.—President Harding's reference to the coal strike status in his message to congress was heartily approved by A. M. Ogle, president of the National Coal association.

Ogle sent the president this message: "Permit me to offer my sincere and cordial congratulations on your effective presentation of the coal situation to congress and to again assure you of every support and assistance in carrying out your fact-finding tribunal."

Washington, August 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—President Harding laid the whole story of the rail and coal strikes before the American people today with a pledge that, whatever the cost, government by law will be sustained.

Summing up before a joint session of senate and house his efforts toward industrial peace, the president asserted that neither employers nor employees could escape responsibility for the present situation and that no "small minority" would be permitted to override the paramount interests of the public.

"We must reassert the doctrine that in this republic the first obligation and the first allegiance of every citizen, high or low, is to his government," said the president. "No matter what clouds may gather, no matter what storms may ensue, no matter what hardships may attend or what sacrifice may be necessary, government by law must and will be sustained."

"Wherefore, I am resolved to use all the power of the government to maintain transportation and to sustain the right of men to work."

National Agency. To strengthen the hand of the administration in dealing with present and future coal troubles, Mr. Harding asked for authorization of a national agency to purchase, sell and distribute coal, and for creation of a commission to inquire into "every phase of coal production, sale and distribution."

Pithy Paragraphs Story Kicks Up Big Literary Stir

Judging from telephone inquiries seeking further information on the Pithy Paragraphs feature to start Monday in the pages of The Constitution and on the film at the Howard theater, there was evidently an outburst of literary activity yesterday in Georgia such as has never before been experienced.

TRAINMEN OFFER NEW PROPOSITION TO SETTLE STRIKE

Gossip Says Acceptance Would Mean Immediate Return of Strikers With Unimpaired Seniority.

EXECUTIVES MEET AND FRAME ANSWER

Meanwhile Congressional Leaders Rush to Create Federal Agency to Sell and Purchase Coal.

New York, August 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—The five great railroad brotherhoods, which have stepped into the nationwide shopmen's strike as mediators, today offered to the roads what they termed a practical proposition for peace, and the roads took the proposal under consideration.

Neither side would officially disclose the terms of the proposition. In some quarters close to the conference, it was said, that acceptance of the proposal by the executives would result in the immediate return of all strikers to their old jobs with full and unimpaired seniority and pension rights, in addition to the retention to men hired since the strike.

The proposition on the other hand, was outlined in other quarters as providing for restoration of strikers as rapidly as possible with their seniority rights to be adjusted ultimately to the satisfaction of all.

Gentlemen's Agreement. The proposal in these quarters was understood to be on the basis of a gentlemen's agreement which those close to the conferees said would give respect to the rights of the new men. This agreement, it was said, would assure jobs to both the strikers and the so-called new men, since railroads and brotherhood officials have stated that they could use 150 per cent of their normal shopmen's force to prepare for the resumption of coal mining and the transportation of a bumper crop.

The gentlemen's agreement, it was understood, would provide that the question which will arise at the end of the busy fall season would be handled as it has been in other years—according to the usual weeding-out process.

Executive's Meet Tuesday. The whole plan, it was unofficially indicated would mean that without any apparent surrender by either the railroads or the shopmen, the strikers would not suffer any more in the long run than would be usual after an industrial struggle of this kind.

A committee of nine executives, appointed to meet the brotherhood men, listened to this proposition, hastily summoned a general meeting of the representatives of 148 roads, which probably will be held here next Tuesday, then fixed the next meeting with the mediation committee for next Wednesday in this city.

HURRY TO CREATE FEDERAL AGENCY

Washington, August 18.—Republican leaders in congress moved quickly to carry out the more urgent recommendations made by President Harding today in his message on the industrial situation. Their efforts for the most part, although not all, were seconded by democratic members.

Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, republican house leader, within an hour after the president concluded delivery of his address had telegrams on the wires to absent members of the house interstate commerce commission requesting them to return to Washington at once to begin work on bills to carry out the president's recommendations for authorization to set up an agency to purchase, sell and distribute coal and for creation of a commission to ascertain the facts in the coal industry.

A republican leader, accompanied by Speaker Gillett, later visited the white house and personally assured the president that legislation creating the fact finding commission would be introduced within a few days and probably passed by the house next week. Senate leaders also promised speedy action on this piece of legislation.

House and senate leaders alike, however, expressed the opinion that recommendations for coal distribution and price control agency could not be so speedily carried out. Some senators declared federal distribution and price control during the war had not been successful and they were not prepared to try the experiment again.

Other recommendations of the president such as legislation to put teeth in decisions of the railroad labor board and to accord federal protection to aliens, leaders said, could go over until the next session of congress.

The determination of the president to "use all the power of the government to maintain transportation and sustain the right of men to work," was almost universally approved by members of congress.

Complete Text of Address By Harding On Two Strikes

Washington, August 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—The complete text of President Harding's address to congress on the industrial situation was as follows:

"Gentlemen of the Congress: 'It is manifestly my duty to bring to your attention the industrial situation which confronts the country. The situation growing out of the prevailing railway and coal mining strikes is so serious, so menacing to the nation's welfare, that I should be remiss if I failed frankly to lay the matter before you and at the same time acquaint you and the whole people with such efforts as the executive branch of the government has made by the voluntary exercise of its good offices to effect a settlement.'

"The suspension of the coal industry dates back to last April 1, when the working agreement between mine operators and the united mine workers came to an end. Anticipating that expiration of the contract which was negotiated in 1920, the present administration sought, as early as last October, conferences between the operators and miners in order to facilitate either a new or extended agreement in order to avoid any suspension of production when April 1 arrived. At that time the mine workers declined to confer, though the operators were agreeable, the mine workers excusing their declination on the ground that the union officials could have no authority to negotiate until after their annual convention.

"Accordingly, a conference of the coal operators associations and the general and district officials of the United Mine Workers was called to meet in Washington July 1. The designation of representation was left to the officials of the various organizations, and there was nation-wide representation, except from the non-union fields of the country. Before the joint meeting I expressed the deep concern of the country and invited them to meet at a conference table and end the disputes between them. The conference did not develop even a hope. The operators were asking for their district or territorial conference; the workers demanded national settlement on old bases.

"Appraising correctly the hopelessness of the situation I again invited both operators and workers to meet with me, and tendered a means of settlement so justly inspired that it was difficult to see how any one believing in industrial peace and justice to all concerned could reject it. In substance, it called on the operators to open their mines, on the mine workers to resume work at the same pay and under the same working conditions as prevailed at the time the strike began. In turn, the government was to create at once a coal commission, or two of them, if preferred by all parties to the dispute, so that one could deal with the bituminous, the other with the problems in the anthracite field. Among the commissioners were to be representatives of operators, mine workers, and outstanding disinterested and able representatives of the American public. The commission was to be instructed to direct its first inquiry to the rate of wage to be paid for the period ending next April 1, and then to enter upon a fact finding inquiry into every phase of the industry and point the way to avoid future suspensions in production. The disputants all endorsed the suggestion of a fact finding commission. The anthracite operators promptly accepted the entire proposal. The mine workers refused to resume work under the arbitration plan. The majority

Heat in Washington Develops New Styles As Harding Speaks

Washington, August 18.—Congress—and the galleries—developed some new styles of dress for presidential speech occasions Friday when Mr. Harding appeared before the joint session.

One of the hottest days in Washington's summer, perhaps, was the dictating factor. At any rate wilted coats, palm leaf fans and strange combinations in Palm Beach and other light summer apparel struck the eye of the casual visitor.

The casualties in starched collars were terrific. Even the austere Senators Lodge worried about his before the joint session terminated. And the sale of palm leaf fans immediately preceding the address must have brought tears of joy to income tax collectors centering on proponents of this particular trade.

The president, in deference to the hot weather, came in summer semi-formal dress—blue serge coat and white flannel trousers with white low-cut. Mrs. Harding, showing the same deference, wore a dark blue silk dress with delicate striped inserts. Her picture had a rose, trimmed with a blue and white rosette, was worthy of Bar Hobbs—where she and her husband had hoped to spend a few weeks this summer.

RENOUNCES TITLE; PREFERS TO REMAIN A PLAIN AMERICAN

Washington, August 18.—Henry Ed ward Pellevé, Viscount Exmouth the Sixth, if he cared to accept an inheritance of the peerage, prefers to continue his activities as a humanitarian and philanthropist and to spend his remaining days in his Massachusetts avenue home where he has resided for the past 50 years.

After a few hours of deliberation, Pellevé announced that he would decline to accept the inheritance, according to his daughter, Marion. "Either would never renounce his American citizenship," she said.

Pellevé's son, Charles, a former professor of chemistry at Columbia university and a resident of New York, may accept the heritage, refused by his father, it was said.

DIXIE COTTON SEED CROP ENDANGERED BY COAL SCARCITY

Many Oil Mills and Gins Badly in Need of Fuel and Situation Is Growing More Acute.

BOIFEUILLET WORKING TO RELIEVE SITUATION

Only Possible Step Is to Advance Industry on Government Priority Lists.

Millions of dollars worth of cotton seed from the rapidly maturing 1922 crop will rot in the oil mills and gins of the south unless they can be given a better ranking on the federal fuel administration priority lists than they now have. This condition was disclosed Friday night by John T. Boifeuillet, head of the coal administration in Georgia. Mr. Boifeuillet stated that he is bending every effort to persuade the federal administration to come to the relief of the industry by advancing it on the government priority lists.

Cotton seed, Mr. Boifeuillet explained, is a perishable article, which, to be utilized must be crushed and the oil extracted soon after the cotton is picked and ginned, else it will deteriorate rapidly and be of no value. Many cotton oil mills and gins of Georgia are beginning to feel keenly the coal shortage brought about by the coal and railway strikes. Oil mill and gin men from all parts of Georgia have written to the Atlanta office, at 121 State Capitol, appealing for immediate relief.

Would Be Serious Blow. Many sections of the state are this year making their first profitable crops of cotton since boll weevil infestation began and loss of the usual proceeds of the cotton seed would be a serious blow to farmers, oil mill men and the general business interests of the section, according to the letters the fuel administration has received from mill operators.

Mr. Boifeuillet stated that the first week's operations of the newly established coal administration would show that the coal shortage is being felt more sharply by industry as a whole throughout the state than the general public has realized. The shortage has not touched the home owners as a class because the weather has been too warm during the strike to make use of coal necessary or desirable.

Industries of the state, on the other hand, have been feeling the grip of the shortage gradually tightened for a long time. Coal that had been ordered on contract as early as June has not been delivered to many concerns. The bunkers of many manufacturing enterprises have for several weeks been lower than ever before in their histories.

Hitting All Industries. The coal scarcity has been hitting the little factories and the biggest industries of the state alike, according to applications for coal that have been received during the week. They run in amounts approximately from $300 to $50,000, showing that both small and large consumers are in need.

The Georgia industries which have been most frequently represented by applications for coal are ice plants, oil mills, gineries, and cotton mills. Ice plants are in need of coal not only for their own operations but for the reason that most plants conduct both coal and ice businesses, and their demands are simply reflections of the needs of the infant industries of the state and the small concerns whose consumption is not large enough to warrant car lot orders from the mines and coal distributing centers.

Every effort is being made by the state coal administration to expedite handling of applications. Each application is forwarded to the federal administrator in Washington who shoots it out to the coal markets nearest the applicant and, wherever possible, to the market from which the applicant has been accustomed to getting his coal.

Plants Will Close Down. Charlotte, N. C., August 18.—Many of the several hundred textile plants in the Carolinas will be closed down within the next 10 days or two weeks, on account of the inability to secure coal, in the opinion of David Clark, editor of The Southern Textile Bulletin, who has just completed a tour and survey of manufacturing centers in the two states.

This does not apply, Mr. Clark said, in a statement today, to mills using hydro-electric power exclusively but does apply to practically all the mills beyond the reach of the hydro-electric transmission lines and also those within that territory which operate partly by steam.

Even with a large number of coal mines resuming operation, said Mr. Clark, the fuel problem of the textile mills is by no means solved, because of the railroad strike situation, which makes it impossible to haul anything like a normal tonnage.

Defeat of Audit Bill Brings on Possibility Of Extra Session Call

MRS. C. K. BYFIELD SLIGHTLY BETTER

Rallies From Sinking Spell of Afternoon—Dreyer Denies He Attempted to Get $5,000 From Candler.

While the condition of Mrs. Clyde K. Byfield was reported "not so well as expected," she has rallied from the sinking spell which characterized her condition on Friday afternoon, according to a statement from her physicians at 10:30 o'clock last night. She was reported to be resting "fairly comfortable."

The improvement in the condition of Mrs. Byfield, who underwent an operation at her home at 404 North Boulevard Monday afternoon, together with a flat denial of blackmail charges brought by Walter Candler against August Dreyer, witness to the letter accusing Mr. Candler of charges of "improper conduct" with Mrs. Byfield aboard the steamer Berengaria in July, were the principal developments in the maze of suits and counter-suits which have followed each other during the past week in the Byfield-Candler tangle.

Dreyer added to his statement of Thursday by suggesting that Mr. Candler be asked pertinent questions regarding alleged attempts to have a letter accusing him of misconduct with Mrs. Byfield on board the Berengaria, signed by passengers on the boat, destroyed. He also told of alleged conversations held in his presence on the train en route from Cherbourg to Paris between Candler and Byfield in which Candler is alleged to have offered to pay Byfield $10,000 in cash on their arrival in Paris.

Rosser's Statement. Luther Z. Rosser, Sr., attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Byfield, while reported out of town until Monday, issued a statement before he left, it is said, in which he is quoted as saying that the main points of Dreyer's statement corroborated the story as told to him by Mr. and Mrs. Byfield which, he asserted, he believed to be the true happenings on board the Berengaria the night before she docked in Cherbourg in July.

Close friends of Mr. Candler quoted him Friday as saying that no criminal prosecutions against Dreyer are planned, at least for the present, as he does not consider Dreyer's statement worthy of this much dignity.

According to the second statement issued by Dreyer Friday, he did not learn of the scene in the stateroom until 11 o'clock of the morning following, eight hours after its occurrence. A friend suggested his name, Dreyer said, as an attorney who might be able to settle the differences between Candler and Byfield.

"Wanted Check Back." When the boat docked, he said, Candler called him aside and said there had been a little trouble and he had given the man a $25,000 check. He wanted it back.

"I went to the hotel with them and got the two men together," he said. "Byfield had no money. He

Struck By Auto, Boy of 7 Outruns Man Who Hit Him

Little Pascal Odum Did Not Want to Be Taken to Hospital.

In an effort to avoid being carried to a hospital, 7-year-old Pascal Odum, of 38 East Alexander street, Friday morning scrambled out from under an automobile that had just knocked him down and out ran the driver, who was trying to catch him and take him to a hospital.

The driver of the automobile was C. L. Williams, of 286 West Peachtree street, who came to police station and reported the accident to A. Lamar Poole, acting chief of police. In his report Mr. Williams stated that the boy darted suddenly from the sidewalk in front of his machine, which was traveling at a moderate rate of speed, he said.

According to Mr. Williams, the Odum boy was being chased by a companion, and he ran from the sidewalk on the east side of West Peachtree street in front of his car, coming from behind an auto that was parked beside the curb.

Mr. Williams says that he stopped his machine within a car's length, jumping out to pick the boy up and carry him to a hospital. The boy saw him coming and beat Mr. Williams a foot race.

Governor Was Quoted Last Week as Saying Failure of Measure Would Mean Another Meeting.

IMPORTANT MEASURE BEATEN ON LAST NIGHT

Legislators Were Under Impression Audit Bill Had Passed—Solons Leave for Their Homes.

Along with the highway, income tax, forestry, and biennial sessions bills left dead by the departing general assembly, Friday it was discovered that the audit bill had been dealt a fatal blow, too, and is lifeless, although 98 per cent of the members of both senate and house thought it safely passed.

Governor Hardwick has been quoted as saying last week he would call an extra session of the legislature unless the audit bill was passed by the regular 1922 assembly before adjournment.

Governor Hardwick was out of the city Friday and his absence speculation was rife at the capital as to whether he would now make good his declaration and call the lawmakers back to the capitol.

Senator Manson, author of the audit bill, introduced it in the senate last year and it passed that body. In the house a substitute was offered in committee by Representative Carswell and others. The house then adopted the substitute for the original bill as amended by the committee and it was transmitted to the senate. The senate declined to accept the amendment and notified the house.

The next step would have been the appointment of a conference committee, but in the confusion and strenuous hurry of the closing days of the session this was not done, and when the house passed the bill Thursday night it was in incomplete form, and the measure is therefore killed.

The audit bill creates a state auditor at a salary of $5,000 a year and adds traveling expenses; an assistant, at a salary of $3,500 a year, and requires the auditor to check the accounts of all departments and institutions of the state. The auditor is to be named by the budget and investigating commission.

Hubbub Ceases. The hubbub that kept up for 51 days in the capitol corridors had ceased Friday. The house and senate chambers were silent and deserted, except for the clerical staffs who will remain for five days to finish their work.

Most of the legislators left for their respective homes Friday morning. Now and then a member who had lingered would stroll into the Kimball house lobby. Business of the capitol departments, always more or less affected while a legislature is in session, had returned to normal routine.

The raft of bills passed on the last day of the session, including Governor Hardwick's desk awaiting his signature or approval. The governor was in despatch, Ga., where he delivered a speech Friday.

"Temperance Day." In the bundle of bills the governor's desk is one of which Representative Viny B. Moore is the author setting aside the fourth Friday in March to be designated as annual "temperance day" in the public schools of Georgia. The bill was sponsored by the Georgia Women's Christian Temperance Union.

After a week of legislative session the senate passed a bill carrying $12,000 to install a waterworks system at the training school for girls, near Atlanta, and a bill appropriating $45,000 to pay a state printing bill, two years overdue.

One of the most important measures to pass assembly was the pension bill carrying appropriation to pay the Confederate soldiers their pensions. The legislature, however, made no revenue provision with which to meet the pension appropriations and Governor Hardwick is expected to veto the measure on this ground.

The resignation of Mr. Kelly is not indicative of any friction between him and Senator Watson, who expressed regret at his leaving. In Lawrenceville, the present secretary will be associated with the law firm of Kelley & Kelley, of which he was formerly junior partner. Mr. Kelly, who has been in Senator Watson's office for eighteen months, stated that he and his brother, G. F. Kelley, were also considering opening up offices in Gainesville.

Insurance Agent Identified Man "Drowned" in River

Gadsden, Ala., August 18.—Elwell Albritton, former automobile dealer of this place who was reported drowned two years ago in a motor car accident, has been identified at Hoquiam, Wash., by D. D. Edwards, Gadsden insurance agent, who wrote most of the insurance on Albritton's life, according to word received here by county authorities.

These advices stated that Albritton consented to return to Alabama without regulation papers and a Birmingham detective agency has been advised that two of its operatives and Edwards are now en route to Alabama with Albritton.

Albritton was reported drowned in the Tennessee river near Gunter'sville, July 1, 1929, while on an automobile tour with his son, Earl Albritton, and Arthur Alvarado, an employee of Albritton. The son and Alvarado reported that the motor car was plunged by accident into the river and that the elder Albritton was pinned beneath the steering wheel and was drowned. The machine was found in the river as indicated but the body of Albritton was never recovered.

Insurance companies refused to pay policies amounting to $105,000 on Albritton and a test suit was brought to trial in Etowah county last October, the plaintiff Albritton's "widow," winning in the action. An appeal from the verdict was taken and no money had been paid.

ORDER TO CLOSE NEGRO DEATH HALL SOUGHT AT MACON

Macon, Ga., August 18.—(Special.) Injunction proceedings against the city of Macon brought by G. W. Hatfield, Jr., negro proprietor of Hatfield's pool room on Broadway, to restrain the city from interfering with the re-opening of the pool room, will be heard before Judge Matthews in Bibb superior court tomorrow morning.

It was in the Hatfield pool room that Deputy Sheriff Walter Byrd and two negroes were slain a couple of weeks ago, followed by the lynching of Cockey Glover. After the trouble the city closed the pool room and revoked Hatfield's license.

In his petition, Hatfield denies any responsibility for the trouble and says he has made every effort to co-operate with the city and county authorities in the suppression of trouble and apprehension of criminals. He claims the city in closing his business is doing so without authority of law.

It is understood Hatfield took an important part in the capture of Glover.

STRIKE WARRANTS ISSUED AT MACON IN ASSAULT CASE

Macon, Ga., August 18.—(Special.) Eight warrants charging assault and battery and interfering with labor were taken out today against men said to be out on strike against the Southern railway in Macon.

The warrants were turned over to Bibb county deputy sheriffs for service, but late tonight only two of the defendants had been arrested. They are R. W. Brice, and J. J. Graham. Both were released on bond.

The men are charged with having arrested a negro laborer, Will Brown, said to be an employee on the Southern railway, while he was attempting to leave the Southern shops, early in the week.

PROSECUTION RESTS IN KLANSMEN'S TRIAL

Los Angeles, August 18.—The prosecution rested its case today against 31 defendants, alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan, on trial in the superior court here on felony charges arising from a raid in Inglewood last April. The defense moved to strike out portions of the state's evidence, and the jury was excused until Monday while attorneys presented arguments of the motions.

The indictment against W. O. Moll, one of the thirty-six defendants, was dismissed on motion of the defense, the prosecution agreeing that there was no evidence on which to hold Moll.

The defense also made motions to dismiss the indictment as to William S. Coburn, former grand goffin, and G. W. Price, former king klaner of the Klan. The court took these motions under advisement until Monday.

TOBACCO AT DOUGLAS HAS DRAWN $75,000

Douglas, Ga., August 18.—(Special.)—The Douglas tobacco market has been a little quiet this week, due to the rainy weather, but with it all the warehouses have been kept busy and daily sales are being made. The records show this week that about 200,000 pounds have been sold to date, which is regarded as an indication that there yet is plenty of tobacco to be marketed. If the weather had permitted, the number of pounds would have run something like 300,000 or more. These figures are for four days only this week, until Thursday night.

The amount paid out here for the four days was in the neighborhood of $75,000, and it will reach over $100,000 for the entire week. The average for this year's crop has been over 25 cents per pound. There has been a lot of last year's crop that has sold at a low price.

SAVINGS COMPANY STOCK DOUBLED

The name of the Atlanta Loan and Savings company, was changed to the Morris Plan company of Atlanta and the capitalization was doubled, being raised from $125,000 to $250,000, at a meeting of the stockholders at the Capital City Club Friday night.

At this meeting, attended by about 15 stockholders, Hollins N. Randolph, who has been the general counsel for the company since the day it was founded, was presented with a loving cup, in appreciation of the services he has rendered the company.

The meeting was marked by enthusiasm for the new venture and all but $50,000 of the increased capitalization was subscribed by the stockholders present.

AUGUSTA SHOPMEN RECEIVE BEATING IN STREET CLASH

Augusta, Ga., August 18.—(Special.)—Frank Hall, of Vidalia; H. B. Cawley, of Harlem and J. T. Glass, employed at the Georgia railroad shops here were tonight attacked on Broad street by a crowd of men supposed to be strike sympathizers.

Hall received injuries about the head that are considered serious, while the injuries to Cawley and Glass are minor bruises about the head and face.

The attack occurred in the heart of the business district shortly after 8 o'clock and happened so quickly that the authorities were unable to capture the assailants. A crowd estimated at 500 people quickly gathered which enabled the attacking party to make good their escape.

This is the first time since the strike was declared that strikebreakers have been molested on the principal business street of the city.

Supreme Court Ruling On Recovery of Fund Awaited by Spartans

Sparta, Ga., August 18.—(Special.) In the affirming by the supreme court of the judgment of Judge James E. Park on the report of the auditor, in so far as it relates to the ultimate liability of Dr. R. C. Wiley and Robert Wiley, deceased, in the case of the city bond commission against the First National Bank of Sparta and the Third National Bank of Atlanta, in the superior court of Hancock county, for the recovery of the city of Sparta sinking fund, consisting of municipal bonds and money of the value of $20,000, which is alleged to have disappeared under mysterious circumstances from the vault of the First National bank, interest in the case increased here since the decision was handed down Tuesday.

Public interest is strong as to what will be the supreme court's decision on that feature of Judge Park's decision holding the First National Bank of Sparta, primarily, and the Third National Bank of Atlanta, secondarily, liable to the bond commission.

John D. Walker, former well known Georgia banker and business man, is not a party to the recovery fund litigation, as stated in an afternoon Atlanta paper.

DR. THERON H. RICE DIES IN BALTIMORE

News of the death of Dr. Theron H. Rice, 55, former pastor of the Central Presbyterian church here, was received in Atlanta Friday from Baltimore, where he failed to survive a third operation performed in an effort to cure a stomach ailment. The death occurred Thursday, it was reported, from the effects of ether. Funeral will be held at 10 o'clock this morning in W. H. W. Moore's funeral home at 1000 Peachtree street, N. E., where Dr. Rice was professor of English Bible.

Dr. Rice was pastor of the Central Presbyterian church here from December, 1896, until June, 1908, where he accepted the chair at the Union seminary which he held until his death. He came to Atlanta to succeed Dr. G. B. Strickler after successful work in Virginia churches. His success here was phenomenal. Within nine months after assuming the pastorate he cleared the church of a $12,000 debt. He increased the Sunday school membership to nearly 1,000 and built a $30,000 annex to house them. He was the pioneer in Presbyterian negro mission work in Atlanta, being a leader in establishing the Fraser mission from which the mission in the Pittsburgh session branched later.

Dr. Rice's policy of accepting church support only from free will offerings was marked by a success that attracted considerable attention. He believed that the church should be kept from all semblance of a business institution and frowned on all commercial plans for providing church funds.

During his 14 years of service at the Union seminary, Dr. Rice achieved as much eminence as a teacher as he had won previously as a pastor, and was looked on as one of the strongest scholastic exponents of the English Bible in the south.

At funeral services for Dr. Rice Saturday, Dr. W. W. Moore, president of the seminary, will officiate assisted by Dr. W. T. Thomson, formerly of Mobile.

Dr. Rice was married in 1913 to Miss Elizabeth Matthews Sherard, of Crozet, Va., who survives him, as does his sister, Miss Lucy Rice, of Kingsport, Tenn.

He was born in Wetumpka, Ala., July 8, 1867, and was educated at the Southwestern Presbyterian university in Tennessee, the University of Virginia, and the Union Theological seminary at Ginter Park, near Richmond, Va. He graduated from the seminary in 1892, was ordained a minister of the Presbyterian church and during the same year accepted the pastorate of the Second Presbyterian church at Alexandria, Va.

London, August 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—Genevieve Ward, famous American tragedienne, died of heart failure today at her home in Hampstead.

LEE QUITS OWN RACE TO DIRECT MR. KEY'S

Withdrawal of Walker Lee from the race for county commission to open headquarters and assume active direction of Mayor James L. Key's race for congress was announced Friday. Mr. Lee has been secretary to Mr. Key during his two terms as mayor and, it is stated, would continue in that position should Mr. Key be elected to congress. Key headquarters are at 608 Kimball house.

Ralph McClelland, who has been campaign manager for Mr. Key, will take charge of the campaign in DeKalb county, from which he is representative to the general assembly.

Mr. Lee made the following statement in regard to the change Friday: "Submitting to what I believe to be my duty, I herewith announce to the public my withdrawal from the race of commissioner of Fulton county, for the reason that my undivided attention is needed in the interest of Mr. Key, whose announcement as a candidate for congress was subsequent to my entrance into the county commission race."

"Having been associated with Mayor Key since his induction in office, I deem it proper that I should forego my personal ambition at this time and actively direct his campaign for congress. If he is elected I shall continue as his secretary."

"I regret exceedingly that it is necessary for me to abandon my race and disappoint the friends who have done valiant work in my behalf. I feel confident, however, that those who have rendered me this service will readily agree that I should actively support Mr. Key in his campaign, and in order to do this I must necessarily resign as a candidate.

"I wish to express my heartfelt appreciation of the very generous support accorded me during my candidacy, and I shall look forward to the time when I can exercise fully my gratitude."

VALUE OF TRAINING TEACHERS STRESSED

Dr. M. M. Parks, state superintendent of schools, spoke on "Fourteen Points in the Training of a Teacher" before an audience of summer school students at Emory university Friday.

Dr. Parks stressed the point that there is a great need for better teaching in the Georgia schools, and that there are many teachers in the state's schools who have had very little training for the responsible work, pointing out that there are some teachers in the county schools who have never had a high school education.

The training of the next generation, said Dr. Parks, "is the biggest job in the state of Georgia. The most important work of the schools is in the first grade, where over 100,000 children will enter in September. The best teachers should be in the first grade."

PLAN TO CELEBRATE DEKALB CENTENNIAL

Although the exact date has not been set, the committee headed by Charles D. McKinney announced Friday that DeKalb county will hold a centennial celebration some time this fall, commemorating the county's progress and growth. C. Murphy Candler will deliver the historical address at the centennial.

POLICE MAKING PROBE OF EFFORT TO KIDNAP YOUTH

Detectives who were detailed Friday to investigate the attempt made Thursday night to kidnap two-year-old Walter E. Bradley, Jr., from his home at 264 Atlanta avenue, could find no clues upon which to work in an effort to apprehend the would-be abductor.

The plans to steal the little boy were frustrated by Mrs. Myrtle Percival, a boarder at the Bradley home, who, according to information given police, discovered the intruder stealing out of the sleeping porch with the little fellow under his arms.

She screamed and caught hold of the man, attracting the attention of Conley Rumph, a visitor at the house, who rushed to her assistance, shooting several times at the man as he fled.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley were down town at a theater when the attempt was made to steal their little son. The matter was reported to the police Friday morning.

ORCHARD COMPANY FORMED IN ATLANTA

Incorporation of the Pineapple Pear Nursery and Orchard company was authorized Friday by Judge W. D. Ellis in superior court, on application of H. L. Brown, G. W. Suggs and T. G. Chastain.

The concern is incorporated at $45,000 and is authorized to increase the amount to $100,000 by a majority vote of the stockholders. The company will operate pecan groves, farms, nurseries and orchards, the petition states.

FINANCE COMMITTEE APPROVES TEXTBOOKS

At a meeting Friday morning, the finance committee of council, unable itself to find any money to carry out the recently enacted law requiring the city to furnish free textbooks, adopted a resolution authorizing the board of education to go ahead in compliance with the law, and will leave the debt on next year's council to pay.

In accordance with an amendment in the Atlanta charter bill which passed the legislature at this session and was signed by the governor, the city is required to supply to all the grades of the public schools free textbooks, supplying the first and second year thereafter until the plan is put into complete effect.

Estimates place the cost of buying books for the grades to be furnished this year at approximately $50,000. All the city's actual and anticipated revenue for 1922 has already been appropriated, and the present council will be asked at its next meeting to recommend that its successor of 1923 vote a special appropriation to foot the bill.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY STRIKING SHOPMEN ENJOINED FRIDAY

A temporary injunction restraining striking shopmen of the Southern railway from acts of violence and illegal picketing was issued in United States court Friday by Judge Samuel H. Sibley on petition of the railway.

The following Georgians were among the 20 recruits accepted and transferred to Parris Island, S. C., for training by Captain Bover, since Thursday: Julius I. Lynch, Alto; John R. Adams, 1139 Druid Park, Augusta; Wayland C. Ligon, two years service in army, Union City; William V. A. Willford, Senoia; Kenneth Charver, seven years prior service in army, Dublin; Norman G. Smith, one year U. S. army service, 505 East Crane street, Valdosta; Robert Lee Wilson, 287 Capitol avenue, Atlanta; Donald C. McLane, ex-service man, 207 Columbia street, Dublin; James E. Harris, six years in army, Norman Park; Guy Alexander Moon, White Plains, Cordele C. Thompson, Stonewall; William G. Carroll, Winterville.

CLARK ESTES' BODY NOT YET RECOVERED

The body of Clark Estes, 21, of Clarkston, had not been recovered from the stream of the Chattahoochee river at a late hour Friday night, although county police and many others began dragging the river shortly after he was drowned Thursday evening, continuing their work throughout Thursday night and Friday.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Estes, of Clarkston. He was an embalmer for the Awtry & Lowndes undertaking company, having been in their employ for about a year.

He was drowned near the Pace's Ferry bridge when he attempted, in company with Sam Beckham, to swim across the river. He with several companions, had been camping near the river for several days.

Besides his parents he is survived by a brother, Newport Estes, of Orlando, Fla., and two sisters, Mrs. H. C. Hester and Mrs. G. C. Cash, both of this city.

STREET CAR COMPANY SUED FOR $35,000

Damage suits aggregating $35,000 were filed in superior court Friday against the Georgia Railway and Power company. Attorney John S. Highsmith represented the plaintiffs in both suits.

J. C. Jernigan sought $10,000 for injuries sustained when he was struck by an automobile after he had gotten off a trolley car on the left side. P. T. Sowell, the driver of the machine also was made a defendant. The alleged accident occurred at Gordon and Holderness on June 10.

For severe injuries sustained on July 16 when an automobile in which she was riding was struck by a trolley car on Ivy street, Miss Olive Shepard, of 19 East Eleventh street, filed suit for $25,000 damages.

T. M. Goodwin, Atlanta dentist, and driver of the machine in which she was riding, was also named as a defendant in the action.

A bid of $82,267 from the Trust Company of Georgia was accepted by the city council Friday for $80,000 in 5 per cent street improvement bonds of the city of Atlanta. This is said to be the highest figure ever paid for bonds of this nature.

Other concerns submitting sealed bids for the bond issue, all of which came below the Trust Company, were the Robinson-Humphrey company, $81,408; the Citizens' and Southern bank, $80,743.80; the National City company, $81,119.20; and J. H. Hilsman company, $81,289.

Classes for the blind and for those deficient in sight will be initiated at the opening of the 1922 session of the Atlanta public schools, announces William A. Sutton, superintendent of public schools. Mr. Sutton requests that parents desiring to enter their children in either of the classes communicate with the board of education at the city hall.

The accident occurred at the corner of Jackson and Forsyth streets, near where Bass is employed. Bass was removed to the Americus and Sumter county hospital, where his injuries were pronounced not serious.

ATLANTANS NEAR DEATH WHEN CAR OVERTURNS FRIDAY

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Parker, who narrowly escaped injuries when the automobile in which they were riding toward Atlanta overturned near Madison Friday morning, arrived at the home, in the McGowan apartment, on Juniper street, shortly after 10 o'clock in the afternoon apparently none the worse, except for a few bruises, sprains and scratches.

Mr. Parker and his wife had been to Asheville, N. C., for a two-week stay, motoring through the country. They were en route home at the time of the accident. Just after they had passed Madison the auto left the road on a sharp curve, overturning and pinning the occupants beneath. Mrs. Parker suffered a sprained shoulder and bruises about the body. Both she and her husband were given medical attention at Madison, where Mr. Parker continued to drive his automobile home, while Mrs. Parker caught a train for Atlanta at Madison.

BLALOCK HITS BROWN, BUT REFUSES DEBATE

Refusal to meet J. J. Brown in joint debate and reiteration of attacks on his administration of the Georgia department of agriculture were contained in a letter to the commissioner Friday from A. O. Blalock, who is opposing him for the office.

"My observation for many years has been that joint debates between candidates for political offices change few, if any, votes, and serve almost without exception to emphasize factional political bitterness and strife," Mr. Blalock asserted in his letter to the commissioner.

"In order that there may be no misunderstanding, however, as to precisely what I have said in my various addresses, I have set forth and reiterate my charges," Mr. Blalock continued. He enumerated the following accusations:

"Efficient administration of the department of agriculture would have saved at least $200,000 per annum and given better service.

"The commissioner employed a state senator, who was chairman of the agricultural committee, at a salary of $3,000 per year and expenses.

"The chairman of the agricultural committee of the house of representatives has two brothers-in-law on the commission's payroll.

"During the month of July, $3,308.12 was paid out for fertilizer inspection although there was little fertilizer to inspect.

"Five members of Commissioner Brown's family are on the payroll of the department, including himself at salaries totalling $11,300 per year.

"Oil inspectors were asked to contribute 5 per cent of their salaries for one year as a campaign fund for Mr. Brown.

"Inspectors were asked to 'see' their representatives and senators before they left home for the capitol.

"Commissioner Brown's advice to the farmers to hold their cotton for more than 40 cents a pound in 1920 has cost them millions of dollars."

Woman Sees Ways To Regenerate Boys Who Have Gone Bad

The place where 612 of New York's "bad boys" are being reformed into good citizens, is the subject of a glowing letter received yesterday by Colonel F. J. Paxon, of Atlanta, chairman of the board of managers of the Georgia Training School for Boys, from Mrs. Orian W. Manson, superintendent of the Georgia school at Milledgeville.

Mrs. Manson in a tour of penal institutions in the north and east, at her own expense, to learn the most efficient methods for rebuilding the characters of the Georgia boys under her care.

The New York institution at Palmyra, Mrs. Manson writes, is located on a 1,100 acre farm near Rochester, receives an annual appropriation from the state of $311,752 of which not a cent is expended for food, all of which is raised on the farm by the boys' own labor, or is obtained in exchange for products of the farm. Of the appropriation, $180,752 is expended for salaries.

The "cottage system" of quarters, which Mrs. Manson hopes some day to use at Milledgeville, is followed. The boys are allotted in groups of 25 each, of similar ages and congenial types, to separate buildings where a supervisor and matron, man and wife, act as vicarious parents for the youngsters, all of whom are under 16 years.

Corporal punishment is absolutely prohibited as a method of discipline. An arrangement of merits and demerits affecting the length of a youngster's period of incarceration and his privileges is the basis of the disciplinary system. For persistent offenders a disciplinary cottage is maintained where boys are kept at hard labor with no privileges. The "group spirit" is encouraged as far as possible among inmates of each cottage to stimulate co-operative efforts toward model behavior and individual development.

Mrs. Manson expresses confidence that Georgia will eventually support its reformatory generously enough to permit more ideal conduct of the work. She is now visiting the prisons at Sing Sing and Elmira, N. Y.

ASKS $5,000 DAMAGES FOR SAND AND TREES

Suit to recover $5,000 alleged to be due for 20,000 tons of sand and about 300 fine oak and hickory trees was filed in superior court Friday by Mrs. Mary Jarett White against C. W. Lane, individually, and C. W. Lane & Co., Inc., local contractors.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendants were engaged in construction work for the Southern railway in the latter part of 1918, and while working on the right-of-way of the road in north Georgia, utilized the material for which she seeks settlement.

The sand and timber was obtained on property in which she owns one-half interest, she stated, and she asked for one-half the value of the material used.

TWO BURGLARY CASES REPORTED TO POLICE

Two burglaries were being investigated by detectives Friday. They are said to have been committed during the late hours of Thursday night.

A Good Motor Oil Saves Gasoline

Are you getting too few miles to a gallon of gasoline? Then you are probably using the wrong lubricating oil for your motor!

An oil that is either low in quality or incorrect in "body" does not form a tight seal between the piston rings and cylinder wall. On the compression stroke, the great pressure forces a part of the fuel charge in the combustion chamber through the weak oil film between the piston rings and cylinder wall, and into the crank case. This results in poor compression, much wasted power, and excessive gasoline consumption.

The gasoline which gets into the crank case dilutes the lubricating oil, weakens the oil film and further decreases its efficiency—thus the waste increases all the while.

Stanocola Polarine will increase the compression of your motor and reduce gasoline waste to a minimum. It never varies from its high standard of quality; and there is a "body" to suit the type and requirements of your motor—consult the Stanocola Chart.

To save on your gasoline bills use nothing in your motor but Stanocola Polarine.

COAL BOOTLEGGERS ARE LATEST PESTS, HOOVER DECLARES

Washington, August 18.—There are "bootleggers" in the coal game as well as the booze game, according to Secretary Hoover. In a letter to Senator Borah, outlining suggestions and reasons for legislation to curb coal profiteering, Hoover said: "Your statement as to the rise in prices is literally correct. Even the $6.25 average price you mention means an average of a lot of decent men selling fair price coal, with a minority of bootleggers selling it up to $12."

PLEDGES TO MAINTAIN ORDER DURING STRIKE

prevent conspiracy against interstate commerce and to insure safety in railway operation.

"It is my purpose," he continued, "to invoke these laws, civil and criminal, against all offenders alike."

One other legislative enactment, a law to permit the federal government to step in and protect aliens where state politicians fail, was advocated by the chief executive as a result of what he termed the "butchery of human beings, wrought in madness, at Herrin, Ill." Despite the protests of foreign governments whose nationals suffered in the Herrin mine battle, he said, federal officials were powerless to take in hand the situation created by "the mockery of local inquiry and the failure of justice in Illinois."

Salvos of Applause.

Members of the senate and house received the pronouncement of the president with repeated salvos of applause and the leaders of both branches announced later that no time would be lost in putting his legislative recommendations into effect. Generally, the address won approbation from all elements in congress, although some democratic members were inclined to criticize the chief executive's utterances as capable of a double construction.

At the white house it was indicated that Mr. Harding's reference to invocation of existing statutes against conspiracy related to the Sherman anti-trust law, under which the department of justice already has directed an investigation of the acts of some of the members of non-striking rail unions who walked out in the far west. Officials of the administration were unwilling to go into cases tonight, however, saying the president's announcement of his determination to enforce the laws must speak for itself.

Throughout his address, President Harding emphasized his desire that the government should play no favorites as between employers and employees, either in efforts to end the existing strikes or in future action against lawless men.

"Surely," he said, "the threatening conditions must impress the congress and the country that no body of men, whether limited in numbers and responsibility for railway management or powerful in numbers and the necessary forces in railway operation, shall be permitted to choose a course which so imperils public welfare. Neither organizations of employers nor workers' men's unions may escape responsibility."

Scores Mob Law.

"If free men cannot toil according to their own lawful choosing, all our constitutional guarantees born of democracy are surrendered to mobocracy and the freedom of a hundred millions is surrendered to the small minority which would have no law."

At the same time, the president called attention to another element which he said he believed was responsible to some degree for strikes and for the difficulties of restoring industrial peace.

"I refer," said he, "to the warfare on the unions of labor. The government has no sympathy or approval for this element of discord in the ranks of industry. We recognize these organizations in the law, and we must accord them with inculcable contribution to labor's uplift."

Discussing the coal strike specifically, Mr. Harding warned congress that although the strikes now appeared to be clearing, more trouble can be expected when wage contracts are renewed next April unless the executive is provided with adequate authority. He declared that except for coal from non-union districts "the country is at the mercy of the United Mine Workers' and detailed how settlement of the present strike has been delayed for many weeks although evidence had come to the white house that in many localities the coal was being mined and anxious to return to their jobs."

Final Revision.

Arrangements for the president's appearance before congress, which once had been postponed to wait developments in the conference of rail executives and union chiefs in session at New York, were completed an hour before he went to the capitol and during the morning his manuscript underwent a last revision after a session of the cabinet. It is understood that although the New York meeting was not mentioned in the address, the decision to go to the capitol without further delay was reached after it had become apparent no final agreement ending the strike would be possible for several days.

As the chief executive was on his way up Pennsylvania avenue in a white house automobile an hour before he was to appear at the capitol, the decision developed which for a time threatened to overturn entirely the plan for a joint session to hear the address. Republican leaders in the house hurriedly arranging for passage of a resolution authorizing the body to sit with the senate in special session, were stopped abruptly by a point of order proposed by Representative Huddleston, democrat, Alabama. Before the beginning of the roll call, however, which would have required an upward of an hour and which the leaders said might in the end reveal that no quorum was present, Mr. Huddleston withdrew his objection upon the request of the democratic house leader, Representative Garrett, of Tennessee.

For the most part, there was no party division in the reception accorded the president's declaration of applause sweeping the entire floor and the galleries as he pronounced deliberately his warning against lawlessness and strife in a prolonged ovation as he concluded with the pledge to "use all the power of the government to maintain train transportation and sustain the right of men to work."

Driver of Death Car Given 3-Year Sentence In Trial at Griffin

Griffin, Ga., August 18.—(Special.)—Frank Carswell was today found guilty of involuntary manslaughter by a jury in the Spaulding superior court. He was sentenced to serve from one to three years in the penitentiary.

Carswell was driving an automobile on the Dixie highway near Griffin last March at a rapid rate of speed when he attempted to turn a curve in the highway. The speed was too great, Carswell lost control, and the car plunged into the side of a store building, killing three of the persons, including Carswell's wife and child.

The grand jury made a recommendation that the county officials be more liberal in the sale of gasoline and oil on Sunday. At present there is no gasoline or oil allowed to be sold in this county on the Sabbath. The grand jury finished its work but was not dismissed by Judge William E. H. Seay, Jr., as the judge stated it would be necessary to hold an adjourned session of the court in October, due to an unusual amount of work on the calendar.

Washington Street Site Will Cost About $150,000

Diagram showing the Brown block, bounded by Woodward Avenue and Washington Street, which is being proposed as the site for the new girls' high school. Approximately one-fourth of the square is now owned by the city, and the remainder can be purchased, it is believed by H. F. West, local realtor, for about $150,000. Mr. West now holds options on the property adjoining the city tract, and the aggregate cost under the present options would be $165,000. An effort to secure reductions bringing the aggregate cost to $150,000 will be made by Mr. West if the city gives the property serious consideration.

Purchase of property necessary to give the city ownership of the entire Brown block, bounded by Woodward Avenue, Washington, Rawson and Pulliam streets, which has been suggested at a site for the senior girls' high school in the city, is now being considered by the city. The tract, probably would not cost more than $150,000, according to H. F. West, local realtor, who holds options on the tracts adjoining the lot already owned by the city at Washington Street and Woodward Avenue. According to Mr. West, under his present options the property is being held by the various owners for a total of $165,000, but he expressed the belief that should the city give the location serious consideration he could secure reductions to total $150,000.

Indorsed by Inman.

The location has the indorsement of Frank Inman, chairman of the board commission's school committee, who proposed the site at a recent meeting of the commission.

The next regular meeting of the board commission is scheduled for Tuesday, August 23, and it is understood the body will act on the project at that time.

Wide-spread interest in the Washington street site was manifested Friday. The proposal to place the school in the north end of Grant park will be voted on in the coming primary, and several city officials were of the opinion Friday that if it is defeated the school board will turn to the Brown block as the most logical second choice.

Purchase of the Julius Brown property, having a frontage of 88.5 feet on Washington Street, and of the Georgia Tech property with a frontage of 105 feet on Washington Street, would give the city a frontage on Washington Street of 417.5 feet.

Options Held by West.

Mr. West holds options on a tract fronting 47 feet on Woodward Avenue and 130 feet on Pulliam Street, and a tract fronting 105 feet on Washington Street, belonging to the Greek Orthodox church, and several smaller Pulliam street lots on which stand small residences. Purchase of the Pulliam street frontage of the block would give the city ownership of the entire square.

Heavily favoring the Brown block for the girls' school because of its central location, Commissioner A. C. Meixell told The Constitution Friday that in the event the Grant park location is abandoned at the polls he would favor the Brown block.

Second-Hand Mat Wanted.

A young physician was buying furniture for the equipment of his office. The salesman racked his brain to think of something else to sell him.

He had sold almost everything that was appropriate or necessary when he had a happy thought.

"Oh, yes," he nearly forgot," he exclaimed, "I need a door-mat."

"Not new one," said the young doctor. "I'll get that at a second-hand store. A worn one will be a much better advertisement for me."

After Lawyer Got Through.

(From Everybody's Magazine.)

David Walsh, United States senator from Massachusetts, recently told the following story on himself:

A man by the name of Davis, while passing along the main street in Clinton, after setting up a claim, stepped into a hole in the sidewalk and falling broke his leg. He brought suit against the city for one thousand dollars and engaged Walsh as counsel.

Walsh won the case, but the city appealed to the supreme court. Here, also, the decision was for Walsh's client. After setting up the claim, Walsh sent for his client and handed him one dollar.

"What's this?" asked the man.

"That's your share of the money," said Walsh. "I've taken out my fee, the cost of appeal and several other expenses," said Walsh.

"What's the matter with this?" he asked. "Is it bad?"

Escapes in Car Owned by State Then Sells It

Escaping from a convict camp before lunch in a state-owned automobile and selling it in time to invest part of the proceeds in his evening meal was the unusual salesmanship of Houdini feat charged to Luther Russell, 17, who was captured by City Detectives George E. Holley and E. P. Meek at his home at 188 Courtland street last night after about eight hours of freedom.

Young Russell, who had served about six weeks of an eight months sentence for theft of automobile tires, slipped away from guards while he was working near the river convict camp, leaped into the automobile of the Georgia Training school which was standing by the roadside and disappeared down the highway toward Atlanta in a cloud of dust and with the guards in full cry behind him.

Detectives stated that they knew who had purchased the car but had not been able to recover it early Saturday morning and refused to divulge the name of the purchaser.

MRS. MARY SCOTT DIES AT RESIDENCE FOLLOWING FALL

Mrs. Mary Trammell Scott, 91 East Merritts Avenue, died at the residence Friday evening. She broke her leg about two weeks ago and was taken to a private hospital for treatment, and was brought home a few days ago, the injury apparently well.

Attending physicians decided Friday that the bone had knit sufficiently for the cast to be removed. As soon as the cast was removed, Mrs. Scott said she felt faint, and death came almost immediately. Until the moment of her unexpected death, Mrs. Scott had been feeling in the best of health and spirits, it is said.

She is survived by a son, Trammell Scott, of Atlanta; a daughter, Mrs. John Hine, of Birmingham; her mother, Mrs. L. N. Trammell, of Dalton; four sisters, Mrs. John Cartwright, Mrs. Alice Trammell Sessions, both of Birmingham; Mrs. Frank M. Boston, and Mrs. W. L. Foust, both of Atlanta; and by three brothers, Paul B. Trammell, of Dalton; W. J. Trammell, of Waycross, and L. N. Trammell, of Marietta.

Mrs. Scott was a daughter of the late Colonel L. N. Trammell, who was a member of the Georgia railroad commission for 20 years. Her husband, Paul B. Trammell, is at present a member of the railroad commission.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the residence. H. M. Patterson and Son in charge.

Moratorium Asked, Commission to Study Germany's Condition

Berlin, August 18.—The German government has requested the request of the reparations commission that a delegation be sent to Berlin to study Germany's financial condition first hand, before a decision is given on the request for a moratorium.

While this was being agreed on, the panic on the Bourse as the result of an interest in the continuation of the mark declined to 1,100 to the dollar.

Reports that the French would send an army across the border unless their demands were met were regarded skeptically, but influenced the already jumpy transactions on the Bourse.

BOOTLEGER CACHE IN BAPTIST CHURCH

Bristol, Va., August 18.—Twenty gallons of whiskey and five gallons of blackberry brandy were found by officers yesterday in a Baptist church near West Jefferson, N. C. The liquor had been concealed there by bootleggers, it was said, apparently in the belief it would be safe. Church goers detected the odor and a search was made.

The Duo-Art has been heard daily the latter part of this week from Station WGM. It is an exclusive Constitution instrument and is the finest instrument of its kind in any broadcasting station in the south.

LESSON NO. 125.

Selective Tuning of Receivers.

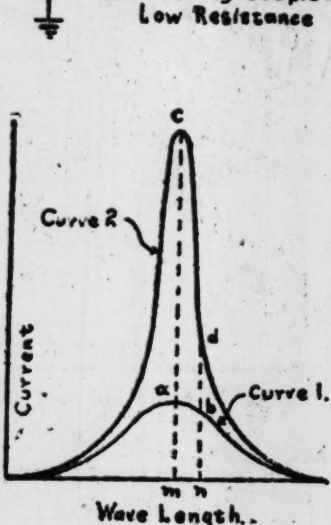

One of the most important factors affecting the degree of selectivity obtainable with a receiving system is the resistance of the receiving circuit. Circuits having a high resistance respond almost equally well to signals transmitted on quite different wavelengths, while circuits in which the resistance is kept as low as possible respond more readily to the particular wavelength to which the set is tuned.

Simple High Resistance Circuit

Inductively Coupled Low Resistance

ing the damping or decrement, that particularly necessary to use as loose coupling as possible when receiving from a given station, while other stations are operating on nearly the same wavelength. The coupling is reduced until the desired signal is enough louder than the unwanted signal so that the message may be read without difficulty.

Questions and Answers

Radio Editor—I have a double slide receiver outfit with a pair of 5,000 ohm resistors. The aerial is 100 feet one wire. Would I be able to hear WGM—E. L. G.

You ought to be able to hear WGM under favorable conditions.

Radio Editor—Please tell me what gas is used in vacuum tubes. Do the electrons that are not collected by the plate go right through the glass?—G. L. N.

In a vacuum there cannot be any gas. When a vacuum tube is exhausted there is nothing left. In a detector or soft tube the tube is exhausted to such a high degree as in an amplifier and there may be a trace of neon or helium gas left within, but it is not put there, the gas being so rare that there is great difficulty in extracting it with the others. In an amplifier a very high vacuum is used and this is what sometimes causes the tube to be discarded. Certain elements of the plate, grid and filament will be liberated by this high vacuum and deposited on the glass. This is what makes the amber color. The electrons pass through the glass. This can be proven with home-made vacuum tubes with an external grid, that work very well.

ATLANTA LAUDED IN LETTER WRITTEN BY ROGER BABSON

Prediction of a much larger Atlanta because of the character of her people, the central location for handling the natural resources; i. which the south is rich, the favorable climatic conditions and the expanding school facilities, is made in a letter written by Roger W. Babson, of Wellesley Hills, Mass., statistical expert, to the Atlanta chamber of commerce.

Mr. Babson writes: "The south leads the United States in natural resources. It is nearer the center of consumption than is the east, and is well located for exporting, especially to southern Europe and Latin America. Atlanta is in the very heart of these abundant resources. I believe that Atlanta is destined to grow to very much larger proportions than at present."

All the south needs, and this probably also applies to Atlanta, is that desire to produce and that joy

SONGS AND PIANO NUMBERS OFFERED

Donald H. King, Tenor; Signor E. Volpi and Steinway Duo-Art Furnish Program.

Six excellent tenor solos with two piano numbers on the Steinway Duo-Art reproducing piano from Phillips & Crew made up an unusually good program between 9 and 10 o'clock last night from station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution.

Featured on the program with the piano numbers was Donald H. King, a pupil of Signor E. Volpi. Mr. King has a robust tenor voice and sang his numbers in such a way last evening that they brought much comment from listeners. All of his songs were ballads.

The piano accompaniments played by Signor Volpi were especially good on the Steinway piano.

The two piano numbers presented with Mr. King's program were "Kamien-Ostrov," by Rubenstein, as played for the Steinway Duo-Art, by Harold Bauer, and "Honolulu Eyes," played by Erik Satie.

For his program, Mr. King sang "Pale Moon," "God Touched the Rose," "The Eyes of Irish Blue," "Do You Not Know," "There's Sunshine in Your Eyes" and "Little Grey Home in the West."

The Steinway Duo-Art and the Edison phonograph provided musical numbers for the 6 o'clock broadcast.

Numbers for the 6 o'clock broadcast, which included Constitution features and an article, "Some Luxurious Features for a Man's Wardrobe," written by John McMullin, associate editor of Vanity Fair.

The Steinway Duo-Art numbers played at 6 o'clock were Gounod's "Ave Maria," played by Radoloph Byrd, "Thais" played by Winifred Byrd, The Edison numbers presented were "A Gay Goose," a banjo number by Vess L. Ossman; "The Mocking Bird," a xylophone solo by Charles Daab, and "The Devil's Dream," a violin number by Joseph Samuels.

DR. BRITAIN WRITES FOR "CITY BUILDER"

The August number of the "City Builder," official organ of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, was being distributed Thursday. It contains 48 pages and articles of interest by many prominent Atlantans.

The leading article is by Dr. M. L. Brittain, recently elected president of Georgia Tech. Other feature articles are: "Atlanta, the Financial Center of the South," by Haynes McFadden, president and editor of "The Southern Bankers," "Own Your Home—Invest Your Surplus in Atlanta," by Henry B. Scott, real estate dealer; "Atlanta's Association of Credit Men," by Clarence L. Williams, and "The Atlanta Motor Club," by W. G. Peebles, Jr., secretary of the club.

The civic clubs of Atlanta have departments in the August number. Another attractive article is "Atlanta's Latest Artistic Acquisition," by Leona Westbrook, who discusses the musical status of the city.

Secretary B. S. Barker, of the chamber of commerce, states in his report that there are 4,500 more men employed in Atlanta August 1 than at that time last year.

GEORGIA SHOPMEN FACE U. S. PROBE

Savannah, Ga., August 18.—(Special.)—John W. Bennett, federal district attorney, arrived in Savannah today to confer, it is said, upon early and vigorous action with reference to alleged violations of the recent restraining order of the federal court enjoining strikers from certain acts.

The recent strike disturbances which have occurred in Waycross, Augusta, and throughout the state in violation of the injunction granted the railroad by United States Judge William H. Barrett, has resulted in an announcement from the district attorney's office that criminal information will be filed against all who violate the restraining order and that the defendants will be prosecuted to the extent of the law.

Probably the most stringent law to be enforced by the government is the statute with reference to injuring persons in the exercise of civil rights. Any one found guilty of violating this section of the United States law is subject to imprisonment for not more than 10 years and to a fine not to exceed $5,000 if it is announced.

Under the injunction granted to the Central of Georgia, the Seaboard Air Line and the Atlantic Coast Line railroads, any person named in the restraining order is prohibited from law as the result of the strike and will be prosecuted in the federal court according to the statement issued by the district attorney's office. Several criminal informations have been filed against persons for alleged violations of the injunction and 11 persons have been bound over as the result of the action of the government agents to await the action of the federal grand jury charged with conspiracy.

The statement issued today from the district attorney's office follows: "The policy of the government in the strike will be to uphold the power and dignity of the injunctions issued by the court and to protect against violators by criminal information which will mean that the violators of the injunctions will be prosecuted in the same manner as any one charged with any other infraction of the law."

"Any person who violates a state law is also violating an injunction of the federal government. Any person charged with any other infraction of the law, assault and battery; kidnapping; shooting at another; shooting at an occupied house; criminal negligence; intimidation to prevent any person from engaging in or remaining in or performing any lawful occupation or to hinder any owner of property from operating or working said property or being guilty of a riot."

The free school of health will have a special program in the auditorium of the chamber of commerce at 3:30 o'clock Sunday. Community singing is on the program from 3:30 until 4 o'clock. At 4 o'clock there will be musical numbers by pupils of the Volpi Grand Opera studio, with Signor E. Volpi at the piano.

Testimonials and experiences from a large number of people healed during and since New Thought congress will follow. A healing meeting with demonstrations will be held at the close of the exercises.

Judge W. A. Foster, noted lecturer, will say good bye at the meeting. Dr. Karel M. Wegkamp, of Amsterdam, Holland, will make a brief talk.

GREEN SEAT IN RACE FOR SEAT IN COUNCIL

Alfred F. Green announced his candidacy for the city council from the twelfth ward Friday. Mr. Green is going to make the race on an independent ticket from his ward, which was badly split on the Kirkwood Atlanta merger plan. Although he voted for the merger, it is understood that he has been promised support from friends on both sides of the issue.

Mr. Green has been in the insurance business in Atlanta for a number of years, with offices at 501 Atlanta Trust company building.

John Moore qualified in the race for school commissioner from the ninth ward Friday by paying his entrance fee to Chairman DeNise, of the city democratic executive committee. Others paying entrance fees were Jesse Armistead, for alderman from the seventh ward; and G. Graham West, seeking re-election as city comptroller.

SHOWERS PROBABLE IN ATLANTA TODAY

Saturday will be a pleasant day, slightly warmer than Friday and with a probability of showers in the afternoon, predicts C. F. von Herrmann, in charge of the Atlanta weather bureau.

The temperature will probably reach 89 Saturday, according to Mr. von Herrmann. The highest point reached Friday was 85.

The coolest points in the country Friday were Georgia, western Carolinas and eastern Tennessee, said Mr. von Herrmann.

Poles Increase Army.

Warsaw, August 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—Poland's army, which normally numbers 250,000 troops, is now being increased to 300,000, due to continued presence of detachments of the Russian soviet army on the Polish frontier, it was learned today in Polish military circles. The strength of the soviet divisions, it is reported, has been increased from 10,000 to 30,000.

WHISKY CHARGES OF LEGISLATOR DENIED BY MAYOR

Brunswick, Ga., August 18.—(Special.)—With reference to the interview of Representative Kittrell, published in state papers today, in which it was charged that whisky was freely used during the visit of the legislature here Saturday and Sunday, the following statement was issued today by Mayor C. D. Ogg.

The interview given out by Dr. Kittrell intimating that the use of whisky among legislators on their trip to Brunswick influenced their action on the state port bill, has been called to attention of the mayor, who is making a mistake that perhaps I am making a mistake to notice it at all.

Dr. Kittrell seems to be of a very inane disposition, and naturally is suffering from pique and disappointment over the failure of the state port bill. He will be sorry later that he has said such foolish things. Of course I regret that he should so far have forgotten himself as to make such an unfounded statement about his colleagues in the legislature, some of whom must be his warm personal friends. As for Brunswick, he could not say anything more untrue or hurtful than he already had said before his last interview.

"Let me add for the people of Brunswick that it has never been our pleasure to entertain a more representative, appreciative and considerate body than our legislative guests."

DETECTIVES SEEKING DRIVER OF BOOZE CAR

County police and detectives Friday were searching for the driver of the automobile captured Thursday night by County Police Cates, Head, Lyle and Jackson, which contained a cargo of fine Scotch and eye whiskies.

The officers were given an exciting chase before the auto was overtaken, several shots being fired. The driver finally abandoned the machine while it was running at a high rate of speed, making his escape in a strip of woods near Hapeville.

AT WOMAN'S WINDOW

BY W. L. GEORGE

There used to be a fashion, supposed no longer to be fashionable but persisting all the same, which dictated that sisters should dress alike. It was perfectly horrible; one saw couples in white with pink sashes, and sometimes complete sets clad in bright green. We are giving this up by degrees, but what happens much more often is that one sister is born smart while the other is not. Number One obviously dominates; her clothes are admired, other girls ask for the address of her dressmaker. The ugly duckling notes all this, rushes to that dressmaker so as to be converted into a fair copy of his successful sister.

If indeed the duckling is ugly the result is generally fatal. Tall and lanky, she appears in stripes which suit her petite sister adorably. Or she hurls herself, fair as she may be, into the orange charmeuse in which her dark sister looks so well. She obviously done for, but I am not thinking so much of ugly ducklings as of cases where both sisters are sufficiently well-favored. There we find a tendency to dress alike, often due to the fact that the sisters between them buy a cheap remnant. It is economical, but economy is sometimes the thief of success. When girls copy each other's styles they are doing all they can to reduce their chance of personal notice. The personality of a woman often appears through her clothes; if she allows herself to appear continually by the side of another girl, clad much alike, she makes it difficult for either to be observed. She makes trouble for her sister and makes it for herself, and in the matter of men she has forgotten that difference is the salt of love.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE GREATEST GIFT.

Why aren't we kinder?

There are few people in the world, not more than one in a hundred thousand, who can give happiness and benefit to a great many people by doing some special kind of work superlatively well—writing, singing, organizing, inventing, acting, ruling, healing, and so on.

But to every one of these there are, at least, 9999 of us who can give no greater gift to the world than the gift of being kind.

Then why aren't we kinder?

There are so many simple ways, negative and positive, to be kind.

A ready, happy smile is a kindness.

The habit of remembering what people are interested in and giving them a chance to talk about it is a kindness.

Tell Her So.

The habit of appreciation is a great kindness. I wish we had some kind of Happiness Meter to measure the happiness that is given when a husband tells his wife how much he liked that special good dinner she planned for him, or how well she looks in her new gown; or when a wife tells her husband how well he looks in his new suit (oh, yes, men care almost as much about these things), or how deeply she appreciates the sacrifice he makes in going without a car so that the boy may have his college course. I fancy we should find that the aggregate of such happiness was larger than many millions of money would buy.

Miss Peeples

Is Honor Guest.

Miss Helen Payne Peeples, of Washington, D. C., who with her mother, Mrs. Howell Peeples, is visiting her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. J. Carroll Payne, was honor guest at the theater party given Friday at the Howard theater by her cousin, Mrs. Edward K. Van Winkle.

Miss Roquemore

Hostess at Dance.

Miss Kathryn Roquemore entertained informally last Tuesday evening, at her home on Melrose avenue, in Decatur, in honor of Mrs. Horace Ethridge and Miss Pauline Ethridge, of Dublin, Ga., who are visiting here this week.

The guests present were Miss Pauline Ethridge, Mrs. Horace Ethridge, Miss Margaret Burford, Miss Ruby Ford, Miss Ethel Carswell, Roy Ford, Hugh Lewis, Eugene Acree, Sam Whitaker, Benson Ford, Edward Carswell and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roquemore.

Damp Matches.

Damp matches that refuse to light can be used after having been rubbed over with a clothes brush.

The habit of repeating to people nice things we hear said about them is a great kindness.

The habit of controlling that temptation to be irritable in the bosom of our families which seems to assail almost all of us when we are tired and nervous is one of the greatest of negative kindnesses. I don't believe there is a vice in the world which causes a greater amount of unhappiness than the daily pin pricks of uncontrolled irritability.

Kind Criticism.

The habit of trying to criticize helpfully instead of finding fault is a kindness.

Small acts of courtesy come under the head of what I mean by kindness.

The habit of consideration and respect for the rights of others comes under the head of kindness.

Writing that letter to the person who would like so much to hear from us is a great kindness.

Don't Have This Remorse.

Why aren't we kinder? It's so simple to be kind and it means so much.

And of all the regrets that tear at our hearts when we look back at a chapter of our life which has been written, there is none I think so unbearable as the thought, "If I had only been kinder! I wish I had only been kinder!"

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Shower Given

Bride-Elect.

A pretty event of the past week was the miscellaneous shower given in honor of Miss Molly Powell, a bride-elect of August, by Misses Kathleen and Nellie May Peck.

The house was decorated with lovely garden flowers carrying out the color scheme of pink and white.

Various games were enjoyed, and Miss Ruth Hannev presented the gifts to the honor guest on a pink and white tray and Mrs. Essie Lee Rodenhaver assisted Mrs. W. H. Peck in serving.

The guests included thirty friends.

The honor guest was presented with a gold and crystal portrait. The top score and consolation prizes were hand-made handkerchiefs.

Miss White was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. L. D. White.

DRESS

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

French Designers Find New Possibilities in Organdie and Depart From Old Color Prejudices in Placing Mauve Over Blue.

Paris.—In the minds of some women an organdie frock means just one sort of thing—ruffles, bouffants, gaithers, puffs, awfully slashed and bouffant hips, and all the rest that goes to make up the Second Empire costume.

So when a woman says: "Oh, I don't like organdie; show me something else," what she usually means is that she doesn't like or doesn't look well in the kind of frocks that women wore seventy years ago.

The French designer is never willing to take the reputation of any fabric for granted. She—or perhaps more often he—is nothing if not an experimenter. Perhaps organdie never has been used to make the straight-line, drooping sort of frock. All the more reason to try to use it that way now.

While the majority of the organdie frocks that have been worn by smart American women in France this year have been of the billowy-bouffant type, there have been others that are draped as sparsely and follow the lines of the body as closely as any crepe or georgette frock could do.

The sketch shows how mauve organdie was used to make a frock of this type. It was built over a slip of Saxe blue crepe de chine and embroidered with blue.

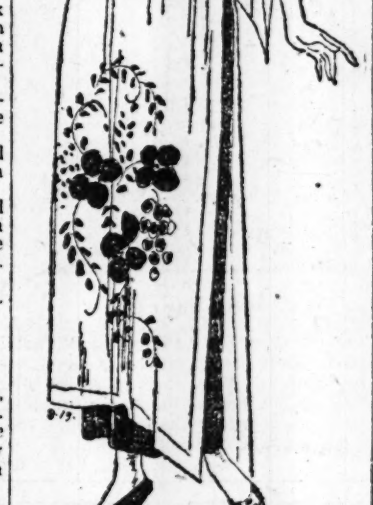

There are some of the scrubber fruit-bearing trees that serve excellently for shrubs. There is the Cornelian cherry that has large red fruit in September, that makes the foundation of a refreshing tart drink or may be made into jelly. Elderberries make excellent jelly. There is the blackberry, that makes a fruit like cranberries in midsummer that makes an excellent jam with a piquant flavor.

Then there are many sorts of nut trees that are beautiful, long-lived, and that can still be regarded as trees that earn their living.

If those who have fruit trees in their garden would actually keep a record to show how many quarts of fruit they gather from trees after they gain maturity they could show very conclusively that these trees eventually yield manifold the amount of money invested.

HOW TO SAVE WHEN SHOPPING

By Ruth Leigh

Author of "The Human Side of Retail Selling," "The A B C of Selling," etc.

When you buy a hair brush, the most important thing to note is the quality of the bristles. There are two kinds: real bristles, which come from an animal, and fiber or imitation bristles, which are a vegetable product. The latter do not give much wear and tear to the hair, but they are stiff and water takes out all of their stiffening and leaves them soft and limber.

To tell whether a bristle is real or vegetable, press the finger or the thumb into the center of the brush and then lift it quickly. Real bristles spring back to an upright position immediately, while imitation bristles straighten out slowly.

Put the bristle between your thumb and your forefinger tightly pressed. If an animal bristle, it will curl over, but if a fiber, it will drop or break. Another test is to heat the bristle or touch it with a match. If it burns like hair it is a real bristle, but if it burns like paper it is an imitation or fiber product.

With these very simple tests, which any novice can make, there is no reason for being deceived, or for buying a poor quality hair, nail or clothes brush.

On Monday we will talk about the purchasing of a traveling bag—something many of us are doing these vacation days.

Horseshow at Greenbriar Is Culminating Event

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., August 18.—The culminating point of the August season was the Greenbriar Society horse show held Friday at the horse show grounds, and attended by the entire summer colony, who filled the boxes and bleachers. Many beautiful costumes were worn by the women, and the scene was a gay and colorful setting for the Virginia-bred hunters and jumpers, winners of numerous blue ribbons and trophies, that made up the bulk of the showing, and around which interested centered.

Party at Club.

Last night, following the horse show, Elmore D. Hotchkiss, Jr., of New York and Richmond, and A. P. Witty, of Louisville, gave a large party at Kate's Mountain club, which was attended by all the members of the younger set. Though the show marks the climax of mid-summer gaieties the season is by no means over. Visitors still have the annual ball masque to look forward to on the 25th. The children's fancy dress party is scheduled for the 26th, while Mrs. Lawrence Lewis, of St. Augustine, Fla., will give one of the largest affairs of the summer at the Casino the evening of the 22nd.

There has been a dizzy whirl of events all through the past week, and perhaps the most interesting of the private entertainments was the cotillion given in the ballroom of the Old White Wednesday night by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Paine, and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, of Atlanta, Ga., for their daughters, Miss Douglas Gay Paine, and Miss Anne Grant. The ballroom is historic, and the occasion recalled a long procession of similar events participated in by well-known beaux and belles of the south.

Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, of Atlanta, winner of the southern championship this spring, who is spending the summer here, was the winner in the women's summer golf championship here this week, defeating Miss Elizabeth Knight, of Charleston, 4 and 3, in an extra deciding match. Several handsome prizes were given in the event by Mrs. Richard Cadwalader Jr., of Philadelphia.

Reservations are being made daily at the Greenbriar for the women's national golf championship tournament which opens September 23. Mrs. William A. Gavin, of Belleair, twice winner of the women's metropolitan championship, and twice runner-up in the women's national has cabled from London reserving rooms for herself and Miss Rosamund Sherwood, of St. George's, L. I. Mrs. Gavin recently took up residence in England and competed in the British women's championship in May at a Prince's Sandwich. Miss Sherwood was among American golfers going over for the event.

It is expected that Miss Cecil Leitch, three times winner of the British title, but who was defeated this year by Miss Joyce Wethered, will be here for the national championship, and Miss Glenna Collette, Miss Alexa Stirling and Miss Edith Cummings will all be contestants.

Miss Ruth Osburn and Miss Runa Erwin left yesterday for Marietta, and were among the visiting belles at the dance given Friday evening at the Marietta Golf club. They are spending the week-end as guests of Miss Nancy Boston.

SUCCEEDS WHERE DOCTORS FAIL

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Often Does That.

Read Mr. Miner's Testimony

Churubusco, N. Y.—"I was under the doctor's care for over five years for backache and had no relief from his medicine. One day a neighbor told me about your Vegetable Compound and I took it. It helped me so much that I wish to advise all women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and backache. It is a great help in carrying a child, as I have noticed a difference when I didn't take it. I thank you for this medicine and if I ever come to this point again I do not want to be without the Vegetable Compound. I give you permission to publish this letter so that all women can take my advice."—Mrs. FRED MINER, Box 102, Churubusco, N. Y.

It's the same story over again. Women suffer from ailments for years. They try doctors and different medicines, but feel no better. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you can see its value in the case of Mrs. Miner. All ailing women ought to try this medicine. It's taken in safety by young or old, and it contains no harmful drugs.

The Constitution's Novel-a-Week The Grand Babylon Hotel

BY ARNOLD BENNETT
Next Week, "Hills of Han"
By Samuel Merwin

Morning had dawned. Nella and Prince Aribert looked at each other. They had not exchanged a word about themselves, yet each knew what the other had been thinking. They clapped hands with a perfect understanding. Their brief love-making had been of the silent kind, and it was silent now.

"Aribert!" The faint call came from the bed.

Aribert went to the bedside. "What is it, Eugen?" he said. "You are better now." "You think so?" murmured the other. "I want you to forgive me for all this, Aribert. I did it so clumsily. Laudanum was a noble expedient; but it has not been ineffectual."

"What do you mean, Eugen? You are better. In a day or so you will be perfectly recovered."

"I am dying," said Eugen quietly. "I die because I wish to die. It is bound to be so. I know by the feel of my heart. In a few hours it will be over. The throne of Posen will be yours, Aribert. You will fill it more worthily than I have done. I have made a fool of myself, but I am ready to pay for it. All because of a miserable million English pounds. If I could have got it, I might have held my head up again. Good-by, Aribert. . . . Who is that girl?"

Aribert looked up. Nella was standing silent at the foot of the bed. She came round to the bedside, and put her hand on the patient's heart. Scarcely could she feel its pulsation, and to Aribert her eyes expressed a sudden despair.

At that moment Hans re-entered the room and beckoned to her. "I have heard that Herr Racksole has returned to the hotel," he whispered, "and that he has captured that man Jules, who they say is such a villain. Several times during the night Nella had inquired for her father, but could gain no knowledge of his whereabouts. Now, at half-past six in the morning she met him coming from Jules' room. 'Prince Eugen is dying—but I think you can save him,' she told him."

"Yes," she repeated positively. "I will tell you what I want you to do, and you must do it." She drew him into her own room, and closed the door. "Dad," the girl began, "how soon could you realize a million pounds?"

"A million—what?" he cried. Even he was staggered by her cold reference to this gigantic sum. "What on earth are you driving at?"

"A million pounds, I said. That is to say, five million dollars. How soon could you realize as much as that?"

"Oh!" he answered, "in about a month, if I went about it neatly enough."

"Useless!" she exclaimed. "Couldn't you go down town this morning and raise a million, somehow, if it was a matter of life and death?"

"I rather expect I could get a million this morning, even in London. But it would cost pretty dear. It might cost fifty thousand pounds, and there would be the dickens of an upset in New York."

"Well, dad," she put her arms round his neck. "You're just got to go out and fix it. See? It's for me. I've never asked you for anything really big before. But I do now. And I want it so badly."

"He stared at her. 'I award you the prize,' he said at length. 'You deserve it for colossal nerve. Now you can tell me the true meaning of all this riddle. What is it?'"

"I want it for Prince Eugen," she began. "He's ruined unless he can get a million to pay off his debts, because—"

"I know all about that," Racksole interrupted. "But I don't see how it affects you or me."

"The point is this, dad," Nella

A Fish Story.

(P. K. McDonald in Adventure Magazine.)

There is no doubt, from what one can gather from visitors who have been in different parts of the world, that New Zealand is hard to beat from a sportsman's point of view, more particularly perhaps in the fishing line. Talking of fishing I have seen the rainbow trout in the spawning season coming up the stream from Lake Taranaki that close together that you could lift them out on the bank with a shovel, dozens of them weighing 20 pounds and over. This sounds like a fish yarn, but if you ever take a trip out here at the right season of the year you can be shown.

A Hotel Built

On a Gold Mine

(From Adventure Magazine.)

Eight years ago a new hotel was constructed in Helena, Mont., on Main street which occupies the site of Last Chance Gulch, where the placer miners worked in the sixties and extracted something like $30,000,000. The contractor who excavated for the foundation hauled the ground away, washed it in sluice boxes and made a tidy sum of money. It happened that the old-time placer miners didn't work the ground thoroughly. These are large areas of so-called placer ground, various parts of western Montana which contain gold and which, according to report, might be profitable if dredged on a large scale.

Canoe Stunts.

(From The Designer.)

In canoe tag one canoe is it and tries to tag another by throwing into it a cork ball, inflated rubber cushion or similar object which will float, and is light enough not to hurt any one. Each canoe should have the same number of persons so that odds will be equal. It is best not to use more than three in a boat. Those in the pursued boat must not touch the ball to interfere with its falling into the water.

A canoe tilt is as exciting as the old-time tilts between knights. Each player is armed with a pole ten or a dozen feet long of bamboo. The ends are well and lightly padded, covered with rubber sheeting and sealed with electric tape. This is important, because, if the pads get wet inside the poles will be too heavy to use. Contestants may use either canoes or row boats. The object is to push the other man into the water. It is unfair to grasp the pole of your opponent or to hit below the belt.

Belated Attack Wins Third Game for Lookouts

Chattanooga Registers Two Counters in Tenth; Last Game Billed Today

Hock's Triple Ties Game For Crackers—James Kayoed After Two Were Retired In Lookouts' Half of Ninth.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

That it is possible for a pitcher to win in spite of himself was demonstrated yesterday at Ponce de Leon when Wingfield, a reformed shortstop, buried the Chattanooga Lookouts to victory over the home-town Crackers by a count of 7 to 5 in ten innings. And that it isn't always the slugging men who are the heroes of the game, was conclusively proven when the defeat was chalked against Dewey Marshall's rather disappointing record, although Dewey officially hurled but one-third of an inning.

However, during Mr. Marshall's brief regime, the visiting Crackers achieved more damage than they had been able to create in the 8 and 9 innings already unrecorded. Marshall, kept warming up since the third inning when Southerner Bill James displayed signs of weakening, probably had tossed away all his effectiveness on pitching at "Doc" Smith's glove. Anyway when Dewey mounted the mound, he was greeted with slapstick stuff that didn't quit until the Crackers were laid out. James was unsteady from the start. You couldn't tell just what was going to happen. We like Mr. James, but when Bill is in the pit there's always a sense of uncertainty about what's coming next. He has a problem, and he has been permitted to stick his bat toward the ball, but he was issued a free pass. Then the clouds became dark for a fact.

It was time for strategy and Manager Bernsen pulled his. James was sent to the showers and Marshall went to the mound. He had already been announced by the umpire that George Cunningham would bat for Hanger, but when McDonald, a left-hander stick artist, McDonald won the argument, for Schulte sacrificed between left and center when Mayer left the ball get away. Clayton and Lee scored, sending the visitors into a one-run lead.

The locals looked to be out of the struggle, but in their half of the ninth, Bernsen reached first on Lee's error and went to second on Klugman's sacrifice. Eddie Hock then tripled, sending the Crackers back into the tenth, however, the Lookouts finished Marshall, scoring two runs and putting the battle safely away. Wright singled through short and reached second on Dorn's single to center. Marshall was here taken out. Oscar Tuero assuming charge of mound duties. Kress laid down a sacrifice bunt and Wingfield was an infielder. Clayton, whose single had started

Dinner at East Lake for Bob Jones A. A. C. Honors Distinguished Golfer

One of Atlanta's greatest assets is going to be honored tonight at the East Lake clubhouse, when members of the Atlanta Athletic club will entertain at dinner in honor of Bobby Jones, who leaves Thursday to join the American amateur golf team in its battles on Long Island to repel the British invasion. It is not labeled a farewell affair, even if it will mean that it's the last time that most of the members of the club will get a glimpse of Bobby before possibly the Christmas holidays, when he is expected to return for a few days from studies at Harvard.

After the matches between the American and the British teams, Bobby will go right on to the Brookline, Mass., course for a few practice spins preparatory to the national amateur championship tournament, which starts there on September 2. So while Al A. Doonan, placed in charge of arranging this dinner because he is accustomed to league a big thing in a big way, likes the word "farewell" in connection with the dinner in Bobby's honor, it's the last time, for several months at least, that Atlantans will have the chance of wishing Bob good luck in his links battles of the future.

Atlanta's most prominent citizens have been placed on the invited list and the dinner is going to be a great affair. Scores of friends who have followed the young Atlantian since the start of a golfing career that has placed him at the top of America's

JACK WILLS RING PICKED

New York, August 18.—The Dempsey-Wills fight may be held at the Polo grounds during of just after the world's series with strong prospects of another enormous crowd and a gate of nearly $1,500,000.

The Republic Athletic club has been granted a license to hold fights at the Polo grounds. The consent of the boxing commission was given Thursday after unusually long consideration had been given the application of John M. O'Connor, president of the new promoting organization. O'Connor promptly obtained the consent to Harry Wills, the negro, to fight for 12 1-2 per cent of the receipts and an offer was sent to Jack Dempsey of 37 1-2 per cent.

The maximum seating capacity of the park for a fight would be more than double the capacity for a regular boxing match. The boxing law permits clubs to guarantee their fighters no more than 50 per cent of the receipts and the challenger in a championship fight is entitled to a legal minimum of 12 1-2 per cent.

O'Connor wants to pull off the fight October 12.

AUSTRALIAN TEAM WINNER

Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, August 18.—The Australian doubles pair, Gerald L. Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood, easily conquered the Spaniards, Count de Gomar and Manuel Alonso, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4, Friday afternoon placing Australia one up in the contest for the honor of meeting the American team for the Davis cup.

The Australians obviously were far superior at doubles play and were not trouble to win except momentarily in the third set when the Spaniards made a valiant rally, took three successive games, and for a few minutes were one game ahead. Alonso, in a desperate effort to atone for the weakness of Count de Gomar, was all over the court in the last few games, but his individual ability was insufficient to carry the side to victory against the fierce speed and power of the Australians, particularly Patterson.

The count's returns were weak and Patterson was smashing at him with overhead blows of terrific force. The Australian team now needs to win but one more match to qualify for the challenge round against the Americans. The Spaniards would have to win two to qualify.

SARAZEN AND HAGAN NOT IN WESTERN OPEN

Detroit, Mich., August 18.—Golfers here today received with disappointment the news that Gene Sarazen, national open champion, probably would not be seen in action in the Western open tournament next week. The champion, it was said, has exhibition engagements that conflict with the dates of the western classic.

It was for a similar reason that Walter Hagan, western open champion, failed to enter.

With the wind-up of the Oakmont tournament, a number of professionals who completed there are expected to reach here tomorrow for practice rounds. These include Emmet French, the Youngstown veteran, who opposed Sarazen today.

Stock Letter.

Wall street in case of the rail conference is prepared to accept the best and in the event an agreement was not reached yesterday the market will not be unduly influenced by expectations, but price fluctuations today are likely to be greatly influenced by the results of the conference which was adjourned this morning.

The influence of the rail conference on the labor situation is the strength in the oils. There is a growing belief that there may be a further rise in the grade and medium is being exerted on the relatively large volume of the conference which is covering is mainly responsible for the strength in the oils and while this covering ought to be a good thing for the market, it is feared that this group is not ready for a sudden rise in the market.

Strength in Studebaker looks to be something than a demopstration, and the buying of the stock is being carried out to 320. There is, we believe, a more or less general tendency to take a moral profit, but the spells of selling occasioned by this policy are so readily and so well absorbed that the market is inclined to side it to be quite a tribute to the fundamental strength of the market.

Boreman, Jan. 10, 1930.

and the expected effect. Yesterday's advance brought to light the uneasiness of speculators, both foreign and domestic, and considerable trading in put in its place appeared. The buying with the covering of the professional shorts who have been selling expecting a break under an early movement of the crop, caused the strength. At the moment the market looks very strong and with Liverpool more than meeting the advance, should go higher, but a reaction is to be expected and will probably be seen today or tomorrow.—A. A. There seems a general lack of trade interest. The local crowd sold the market yesterday. Private reports that some rain had fallen in the morning, however, did not seem to be a natural after a steady advance that the market should have sold somewhat and then advanced. The weather was not so favorable for a recovery by local longs, who did not care to sell at a loss. The market closed at a net decline from the high of approximately 60 points.—Hubbard & Co.

New York, August 18.—(Special.)—The reaction in cotton today which continued unabated until the closing was due to a number of factors. First, the heavy hedge selling. The advance of the week was unexpectedly rapid and it was expected ordinarily to be expected. Further cause for the decline was a lessening of the demand for cotton by the settlement reported as a result of this morning's meeting. Also of serious importance for the reaction was the unexpected thoughts in the president's address to congress yesterday. The president's remarks on public interest is fraught by the strike afflictions. The weather was again reported as unfavorable for the cotton crop. The market must necessarily move in one direction or the other. The market was not so favorable today was at the lowest quotations. It is evident that the break in prices was not finished.—Orris Bros. & Co.

President's Speech Heard With Little Favor By Wall Street Traders

BY R. L. BARNUM

Constitution's Financial Correspondent.

New York, August 18.—There was no abatement to the upward movement of the better grade of stock today. Directly from the opening the market gave signs that prices would continue upward, as evidenced by such stable issues as United States Steel, Union Pacific and others of like character. The rise in United States Steel to a new high record is, in the opinion of some Wall Street traders, just a good barometer of market conditions as it ever was, even though the stock is mostly held by investors and is not the speculative leader it was in years gone by. Trading was again on a small scale during the morning, as the few big traders who are still in the city were to await Harding's message to congress before making commitments on a large scale.

Just prior to the start of Harding's speech all traders flocked around the news tickers awaiting the first word of what was considered to be a most important message. While the traders and speculative customers grouped around the news tickers, trading was virtually suspended for a time, and the stock market was almost at a standstill. Line by line the message was printed on the tickers, and with each line the crowd grew thinner, indicating, according to the opinion of the office manager of one large house, that the rank and file in the street did not think much of the president's proposal. When the speech was finished, one big trader remarked, "It is just about what could be expected, judging from the news received from Washington these past few days. There virtually is a new era in the entire speech."

Trading became more active in the closing hour, and prices in most instances continued firm. The copper took strength for a time, some of the better stocks gained one to almost two points. Possibility of dividend resumption by some companies before many months pass is the factor in the copper group just now. Among the specialties which displayed weakness, the prominent issues were Pierce Arrow preferred and Worthington Pump. In regard to the latter, rumors that the present dividend may not be retained were responsible for the decline.

Sugar Reduction.

The Federal Sugar Refining company today announced a reduction of 35 points in the price of refined sugar to 6.75 cents a pound. This reduction may be a forerunner to reductions by other companies, but it had little effect on the listed sugar stocks. American Sugar during the early dealings established a new high record for the year to date.

The Maxwell cotton exchange is understood to have resulted in an agreement, according to report on the street. The plan calls for the turning over of all Chalmers' assets to Maxwell. Holders of a $1,000 Chalmers' note will receive 10 shares Maxwell B stock and 800 cash. Holders of 10 shares of Chalmers' preferred will get 6 shares Maxwell B and holders of 10 shares Chalmers' common will get one share of Maxwell common. The plan is now awaiting the approval of the attorneys of both companies.

Announcement is expected to be made by the New York Air Brake company within a day or two of a change in the financial structure of the company. According to reliable information it is understood that a new class of no par value common stock will be issued by the company in exchange for the present stock of $100 a share par on a share for share basis. In addition stockholders will be given the privilege of converting their stock into a new issue of common stock at $50 a share. In this way the company hopes to raise about $5,000,000 new money of which $2,500,000 will be used in liquidating outstanding bank loans.

Bethlehem Change Pleases. The change in the financial structure of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, which reduces the number of shares from four to two, and gives full voting power to both common and preferred stockholders was the cause of much favorable comment on the part of the stockholders. It was considered a favorable step on the part of Charles M. Schwab and Eugene Grace and their associates, who are now financing the company. The policy of the company by holding most of the voting stock. Under the new plan all stockholders will have a voice in the election of directors and the call of a special meeting of stockholders to approve the merger with the Lackawanna property, a plan which the company has been undertaking at this time. Stockholders, however, will be asked to approve such expenditure at the special meeting so that the stockholders can vote on the plan. It was also stated that the $200,000 notes due in July, 1922, will be taken care of by the company in the form of a new issue of common stock.

Justice Would End Strike

Injustice the Cause of Strife and Suffering.

(The following is issued by the , too, these fathers should have their Sabbath day of rest.

The endless din of strikes in America reminds one of the Hindu parable of "The Hungry Dog." This was told in India 600 years before Christ.

There was a wicked tyrant. The dog India came to earth as a hunter, bringing with him the demon Matali in the form of an enormous dog. Hunter and dog entered the tyrant's house. Would not such a wage and hours for labor be just?

With both capital and labor working together on this basis to produce the things which man must have to live and enjoy the gifts of God to all, the public would have no excuse for quarrel with either. Neither would there be cause for dissension between capital and labor. Justice would be done to all.

palace, where the creature's frightful howls were heard from the building's foundations. The terrified tyrant asked the cause. The hunter said: "The dog is brought."

Food was brought. All the food prepared for the royal banquet disappeared in the dog's voracious jaws. The tyrant's anger was great. More food was sent for. The palace store-houses were emptied. The fearful uproar continued.

"Will nothing satisfy the cravings of the wolfish beast?" the desperate

Could you follow Jesus and stand for less than justice?"

Your Savior taught:

"Whosoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets."

That law and prophets call only for justice.

"Nothing," replied the hunter, "except perhaps the death of all his enemies."

"And his enemies' enemies?" inquired the tyrant.

"The hunter answered: 'The dog will howl as long as there are people in the kingdom, and his enemies will oppress those that practice injustice and oppress the poor.'"

The tyrant wrote to the truth, and the tyrant listened. He listened to the teachings of righteousness.

No noble monster, but grim reality.

I seek out my sheep, and will deliver them out of the places where they

"I will feed my flock—the shall them afraid."

"And ye my flock, the flock of my pasture, are men, and I am your God, said the Lord God."

God's Flock Men.

"My flock—are men." God's rule today, as it was when Ezekiel preached, with a preaching heard on long to rule. Both mine—own rule owner are men. Both railroad owner and railroad owner are men. Therefore being men, whether you to classify them as capitalists or laborers, both owners and workers are members of God's "flock" though many may have wandered far away.

The shepherd does not seek them all,
he would have them fed, protected from oppression, and afraid, neither of the future, nor of any living crea-

This one seated in an office chair directs the destinies of the mines or railroads, or of both, to be able to deposit checks, to be able to handle the checks, to be able to handle the money and the capital grounds.

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it in abundance."

Justice For All, since these are the children of God, all men, women and children, all men and women of God's flock, for whom the shepherd died, should be able to live in peace and only without fear, but abundantly. Surely then, the working capitalist should receive pay enough to

49ers Planning To Provide Market For Young Writers

New York, August 18.—At the Punch and Judy theater in West Forty-ninth street, New York city, on November 6 next, a group of playwrights and newspaper men will start what they hope to establish as a permanent institution. It is the idea of George C. Tyler, who will also be its manager. The directors of the new enterprise will be George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly, the authors of "Dulcy" and "To the Ladies." The 49ers, as those interested in the project are calling themselves tentatively, intend to present a miscellaneous, kaleidoscopic entertainment of sketches, songs, pantomimes, etc. They will adhere to no set program and follow no forms. They do not want youth and intelligence. Youth, indeed, is the main element that the 49ers want to bring forth. For years the young and unrecognized writer for the theater has complained that producers have conspired to keep his ideas and his material in the conventional form before they would produce it. Any one may bring a fresh idea to the 49ers without any fear that such a thing will happen to him. His idea may be rejected—he will never be asked to compromise.

LOW VAUDEVILLE.

Four shows will be offered today and tonight at Low's Grand Theater, five big acts of all-star vaudeville. The long program of motion picture features. Uno Josh Dreno, on the vaudeville bill, has an offering that for long producing purposes would be extremely rare. His act is a comedy of rapid fire, witty jokes and sayings following each other so rapidly that many goers are misled by not paying strict attention. Dreno is a "hot" comedian in blackface but an eccentric dancer as well.

Other acts are Elefa Garcia and gram ready for presentation on November 6. And they know that they will have a program ready on that date, because the list of those who have already agreed to contribute numbers for that and subsequent programs is long and interesting. It includes, for example, such unusual writers for the theater as Heywood Brown, Franklin P. Adams, Robert C. Benchley and Dorothy Parker. It also includes George Ade, Booth Tarkington, Arthur H. Sulzberger, Eugene O'Neill, Montague Glass, Bertram Block, Lewis E. Gensler, Deems Taylor and Leon Wilson. Messrs. Kaufman and Connelly, too, will see their share of the writing.

Another definite thing the 49ers know is that they will, every week, have a program ready on that date, because the list of those who have already agreed to contribute numbers for that and subsequent programs is long and interesting. It includes, for example, such unusual writers for the theater as Heywood Brown, Franklin P. Adams, Robert C. Benchley and Dorothy Parker. It also includes George Ade, Booth Tarkington, Arthur H. Sulzberger, Eugene O'Neill, Montague Glass, Bertram Block, Lewis E. Gensler, Deems Taylor and Leon Wilson. Messrs. Kaufman and Connelly, too, will see their share of the writing.

SIDNEY SMITH

HESTER IS JUST AS FAR AWAY FROM HIS PONY AND CART AS HE WAS LAST WEEK - HE MADE A SERIOUS MISTAKE - HOPE FOR BETTER NEWS NEXT WEEK

LOOK MIN - SEE WHAT I BOUGHT FROM THE JUNK MAN DOWN THE STREET - ONLY $15.00 A PIECE -

THE RIGHT SIZE AND THE SAME BRAND AS THE TWO I'VE GOT OUT IN THE GARAGE - AND I PAID $35.00 A PIECE FOR THOSE -

THAT'S WHAT I CALL GRABBING A REAL BARGAIN - PRACTICALLY NEW TOO - WITH THE PAIR I ALREADY HAVE THAT MAKES ME FOUR GOOD SPARE TIRES -

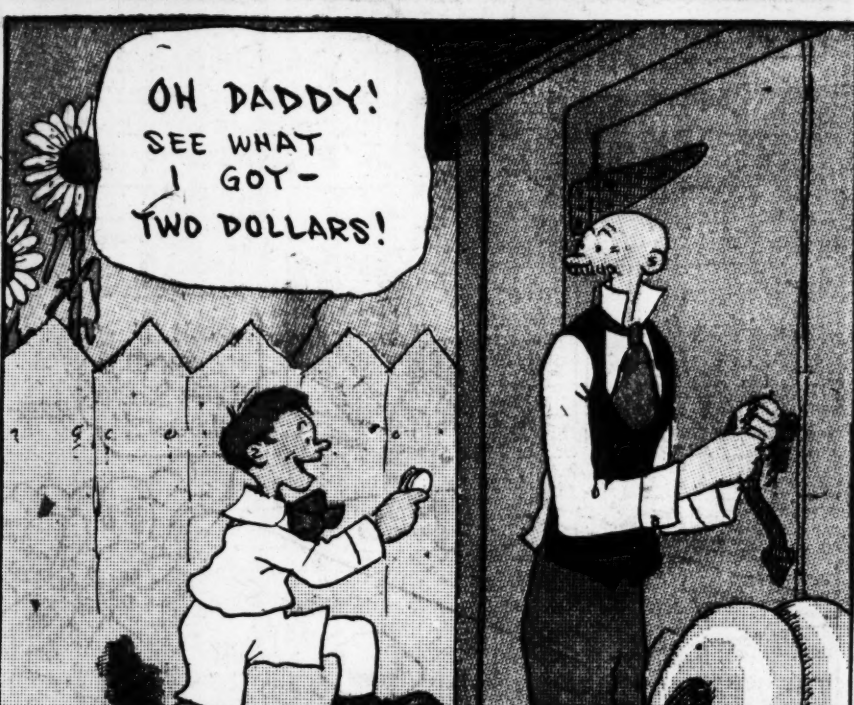

WELL - THERE MUST BE SOMETHING THE MATTER WITH THEM - YOU NEVER CAN TELL TILL YOU USE THEM - I NEVER YET SAW ANYBODY LIFT A BARGAIN OFF A JUNK WAGON -

WELL I'LL TAKE THESE TWO OUT TO THE GARAGE AND WITH THE TWO OUT THERE I'LL CHANGE EVERY TIRE ON OLD 348 - THEN I CAN RIDE AROUND IN PEACE AND COMFORT - NO MORE FEAR OF PUNCTURES AND BLOWOUTS -

OH DADDY! SEE WHAT I GOT - TWO DOLLARS!

WITH THE $2.00 AND THE FOUR YOU'VE GOT TO GIVE ME I'LL HAVE SIX DOLLARS MORE FOR MY PONY AND CART -

MY GRACIOUS - YOU CERTAINLY ARE A SMART LITTLE MAN - THAT'S DADDY'S BOY - TWO SILVER DOLLARS - HOW DID YOU EARN THEM?

YOU KNOW THOSE TWO OLD TIRES OUT IN THE GARAGE THAT YOU WEREN'T USING - THEY WERE JUST SPOILING AND THE RUBBER MAN CAME ALONG AND I SOLD THEM TO HIM FOR TWO DOLLARS - HE ONLY WANTED TO GIVE ME A DOLLAR AT FIRST -

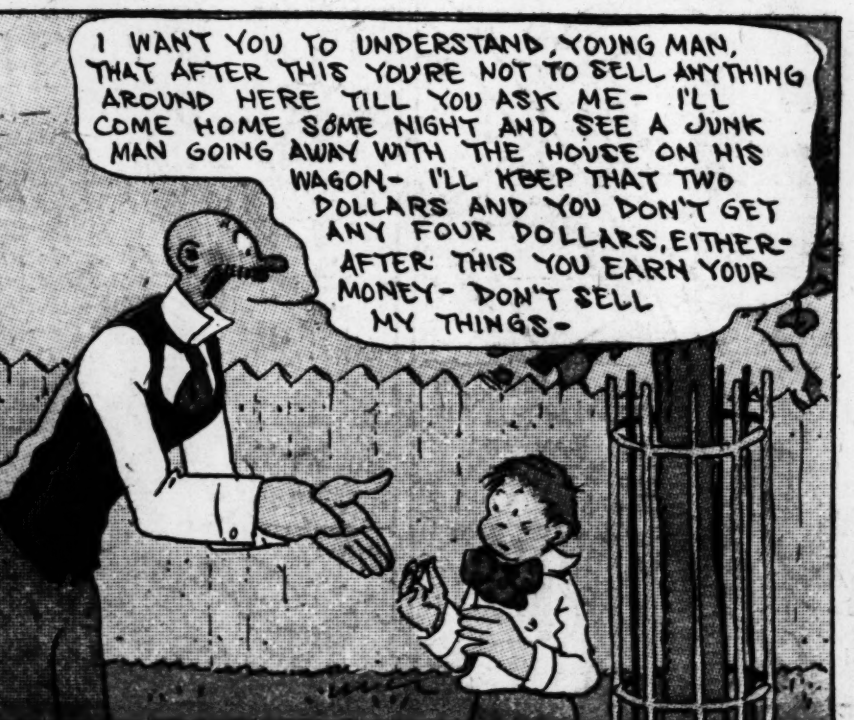

WHAT?

AND I JUST PAID $35.00 A PIECE FOR 'EM TWO WEEKS AGO - THOSE TWO TIRES COST AS MUCH AS THE MAN WANTS FOR THE WHOLE PONY AND CART -

I WANT YOU TO UNDERSTAND, YOUNG MAN, THAT AFTER THIS YOU'RE NOT TO SELL ANYTHING AROUND HERE TILL YOU ASK ME - I'LL COME HOME SOME NIGHT AND SEE A JUNK MAN GOING AWAY WITH THE HOUSE ON HIS WAGON - I'LL KEEP THAT TWO DOLLARS AND YOU DON'T GET ANY FOUR DOLLARS, EITHER - AFTER THIS YOU EARN YOUR MONEY - DON'T SELL MY THINGS -
